Peter Doig's unique watercolour, which was sold for £40 000 (56 453 Euros), showing the image of the moon in relation to Caelestis biodynamic wine adorns the bottle of vintage 2011.

Specially painted for Caelestis to raise funds for WWF this artwork was kindly donated by this renowned contemporary artist.

Caelestis biodynamic wine originates from the prestigious Château Fonroque Saint-Emilion Grand Cru Classé and is signed by its renowned producer and oenologist Alain Moueix: 'Like an artist who goes beyond his limits to find the breeding ground of his art, the vine draws upon the energy of the stars and from the depths of the earth the sense of the place.'

This fine wine remains a true rarity because among a total of 176 Bordeaux Grands Crus Classés (Classified Growths), there are only 3 biodynamic certified Grands Crus Classés wines (barely 2.27% are organic).

Caelestis is not sold in shops and only a few bottles to share between three continents are auctioned each year, making Caelestis one of the rarest wines in the world.

Caelestis is a French non-profit-making charitable and educational voluntary association and the only association which raises funds regularly in aid of WWF with the support of celebrities at an international level and draws public attention to the environmental impact of production and consumption (of wine in particular)
